

Cassida intros new InstaCheck auto detector

PASS or FAIL lights immediately notify whether currency is genuine

The Cassida InstaCheck just made counterfeit detection easier!

Cassida proudly introduces its new InstaCheck Automatic Counterfeit Detector, which will begin shipping this month.

The InstaCheck removes any guesswork in counterfeit detection. Simply pass a bill through:

- On genuine US currency, a green PASS light illuminates and sends the bill back to you.
- If the bill is suspect, a red FAIL light illuminates, flashes and three audible beeps alert you before returning the bill.

The compact unit measures just 10.5" by 14" and weighs less than a pound, making it a natural fit next to any cash register. And, because the InstaCheck was designed for easy retail use, limited training is necessary for clerks to understand how to use the machine.

Multi detection for accuracy

The InstaCheck uses state-of-the-art infrared (IR) and magnetic (MG) sensors for enhanced currency detection. It is sized specifically to take US dollars, so feeding bills is easier and assures fewer dimension errors than other similar detectors.

A must-have for cash handlers

Cassida developed the InstaCheck from the ground up, specifically for retailers and cash handlers who need immediate, reliable currency verification. We are extremely proud of the rigorous testing and development we've put into the InstaCheck and we know users will be thrilled with the peace-of-mind InstaCheck gives them.
